For women seeking a greater shine for the future, unbound by age,
both for their hair and in their lives.

New items now added to the aging care range Plarmia.

Plarmia Refining Series On Sale January 29

Development Background

Mature women are becoming aware that the changes to their hair as they grow older are related to the scalp, but little progress has been made in their actual care routine. In hair salons, too, as hair care and scalp care are often separate items on the service menu, there is a tendency to only care for one or the other.

What is essential for creating attractive hair design, however, is hair refinement through care for both the scalp and hair: the scalp that has changed with age, and the aging hair growing from there. As a new menu for simultaneously caring for both, Plarmia is launching the Refining series.
